Police Beat
-Page 4

I am still outraged by the crimes of violence that appear to be on the increase throughout our country. After over a thirty-seven year career in law enforcement, I was hoping to see a decrease in this violence by now. Even if the economic conditions improve that's not the way it looks.

When our Police Chief added the TASER Electronic Control Device to the Police Department's array of less-than-lethal weapons, I knew he had done an in depth study of these devices and he is convinced, as I am, that it is a necessary tool to provide our officers with an alternative form of legitimate use of force if and when required.

The need was not predicated on our crime rate according to Chief Young, but from an officer safety standpoint. Since October 2007, the Department has had three assaults on police officers and three resulting arrests with violence, resulting in two injuries during the apprehension. While three assaults doesn't sound like very many incidents, it is still three too many. In the Chief's review of the incidents where officers suffered injuries, he is of the opinion that the TASER Electronic Control Device would have averted these assaults and injuries. We don't pay our law enforcement officers to keep our community safe by putting their lives on the line for us when resorting to physical force without the proper tools.

Police work, even in Bay Harbor Islands, can be dangerous. I think this quote from Chief Young is appropriate. He is a military veteran with over twenty-five years as a career policeman. "The use of any less-than-lethal weapon is not without risk. In my assessment, I find that the TASER is a necessary tool in our weapons inventory. Proper use, training and deployment will reduce injuries to both officers and suspects."

Providing the right tools to Bay Harbor's "Finest" to insure the job is done right will help keep our Town safe and protected against frivolous lawsuits against our officers' use of excessive force and vulnerability to unnecessary injuries. Our Town's "quality of life" is due in part with the way our police officers perform their duties. We are duty bound to see that they have the right tools to do the job.

“Spooktacular” Halloween Planned for Oct. 28 on Kane Concourse

Merchants Group Developing in BHI

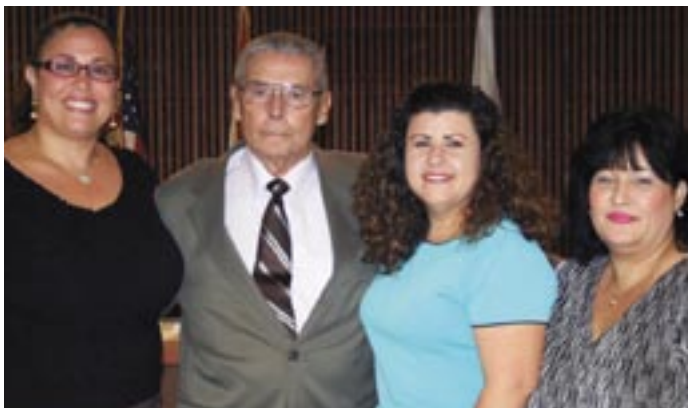

Following the huge success of the Bay Harbor Islands Bark Stroll, which benefited the Humane Society of Greater Miami Adopt-A-Pet program, the merchants in the business area are coming together to plan periodic events on Kane Concourse to bring more people to the street and their businesses. The organizers of the Bark Stroll, Bonnee Binker and Jerry Socherman of Camp Jernee, are planning some great events.

The first is a Spooktacular Halloween on October 28 from 5 – 8 p.m. Participants will be invited to come in costume to BHI and trick or treat in the stores. There will be music on the street, costume contests, special discounts, giveaways in stores and a chance to win gift certificates. Each and every monthly event will have a fun, exciting component to involve the participants and expose them to the wonderful BHI community and Kane Concourse.

“In unity there is strength and increased sales. That is why it is so important for all business owners to create a formal organization to continue looking out for the welfare of all of us. We are looking for 100% participation,” said Jackie Abraham, one of the core group who is very enthusiastic about the idea of a Merchants Association. If anyone is interested in learning more about the organization please call Camp Jernee at 305-378-6789.
